

There are 3 new potential opportunities for NYSE for the coming week.

With the data issues surrounding the Duke Energy merger, and the 3 weeks it took for data suppliers to adjust the data to a single data line, there are a number of people who had positions in DUK, who did not know what levels to adjust the stops to. While DUK would have stopped out, had the stops been shifted to their correct levels at the time of merger, those who were unable to do this still retain open positions in DUK. It is for this reason that DUK is appearing back in the stop list - in order to manage stops on still open positions in DUKE Energy - this is not a new position - merely stop management for those who didn't get out at the time of merger.

Have a great week all
