

Week Ending 1st February 2013

There was 0 entry and 3 exit for the ASX last week.

Of the 11 open positions on ASX, currently 7 have a trailing stop between the entry and current value, protecting profit and the other 4 have moved closer to the entry value, reducing the risk on the table

We trust everyone has had a great break and is looking forward to an exciting 2013, the team at WIN Trading Signals certainly are.

We have had some issues in getting all the platform training videos completed successfully for the launch, so are delaying the launch for an extra week.

We believe there is some misconception regarding the AutoTraders. This is not an account that we have setup that we trade on behalf of our subscribers, as the communication from a number of subscribers indicates they think.

The AutoTraders are Automated trading algorithms, which we sent to each subscriber so they can install them on their own accounts. These are actually called Expert Advisers on the Meta Trader 4 platform, and they automatically execute trades, based upon the programmed parameters.

These parameters will be monitored by us and updated versions of the AutoTraders will be sent to our subscribers as updates are required.

The important thing is that these AutoTraders are installed on your MT4 account, in your name, we do not control the funds in any way.

The website will also explain the insane offer we have for our existing ACOFE membership as a thank you for your support during the last year of redevelopment and disastrous time with website developers - basically if a member elects to pay for 1 year, they will receive the full platinum package for around 59% off the combined monthly premiums of Platinum - a huge discount as a reward for your patience and feedback. The website will explain this in more details and we will send the correct links out to everyone over the coming week.

Daily Forex and Futures reports will be added over the coming week and we should have a reliable data supplier for Hong Kong by the end of January.
